Commissioner Locke remarked that these homes might be too close together for his preference and would not provide each resident enough land or separation from their neighbors, to which Commissioner Dick replied that most Americans cannot afford to pay for large lots and providing affordable housing is important for a town. Commissioner Dick also said that it could be what Monument most needs is more people to support local businesses. This motion passed 5-2, with Jim Fitzpatrick and Locke voting against.

Creekside Commercial Tractor Supply Company Final Plat and Final PD Site Plan

The proposed Tractor Supply Co. in the Creekside Commercial development would be on 6.17 acres of land, built to mesh well with nearby venues. It would be located southeast of the intersection of Jackson Creek Parkway and Leather Chaps Drive.

The project’s Final Plat passed unanimously, and the Final PD Site Plan passed 6-1 with Glover voting against because she was unsure how many Monument residents knew about the coming proposal. She also expressed concern about potential commercial traffic—delivery trucks—driving through residential roads.

The landowner behind this project is Creekside Developers Inc., and the architect/engineer involved is HSC Monument LLC. Should these motions prove successful, Harness Road would be constructed to 10 feet past the storage facility entrance, with a second access point provided for the Vistas housing development as well.

This self-storage facility is intended to provide more than the stereotypical storage unit experience, representatives say. The development would be composed of five storage buildings broken up with landscaping and stucco ornamentation, complete with low ambient landscape lighting. Sample units would be provided, as well as a leasing office and a 65-by-335-foot RV canopy. The storage portion of the property would be gated, and both the storage units and the RV canopy would be enclosed.

While the leasing building is intended to remain open 9 to 5 most days, with shortened hours on weekends, the storage portion is represented by (land owner) Jackson Creek Land Co. LLC. The Tractor Supply Company Final Plat and Final PD Site Plan would be on 6.6968 acres of land directly to the north of the Vistas at Jackson Creek multifamily development. The Jackson Creek Self-Storage proposal is represented by (land owner) Jackson Creek Land Co. LLC, and (architect/engineer) CSI Development LLC. Should these motions prove successful, Harness Road would be constructed to 10 feet past the storage facility entrance, with a second access point provided for the Vistas housing development as well.

While the leasing building is intended to remain open 9 to 5 most days, with shortened hours on weekends, the storage units could be accessed 24-7 by people that own a unit. Commissioner David Gwisdala recommended enforcing a separate code for apartment access. Another concern expressed by neighborhood meetings have already been held to discuss plans for Monument Heights. Special care has been taken to address citizen concerns following said meetings, including shifting density in the southeast of the development. Citizens expressed gratitude for the developers’ willingness to communicate and respond to public concerns.

On that note, concerns discussed at Oct. 14’s meeting included questions about how traffic might increase with the arrival of a new housing development, as well as musings about whether such homes would be in demand so close to the highway. People are also worried about Monument losing its charm, in time, and becoming something of a “suburban sprawl.”
